The Progressive Music Series

Just published; the creation of a group of editors who have respectively marked steps of progress in the most important phases of musical development:

Horatio W. Parker, M. A., Mus. Doc., Dean of Department of Music, Yale University.

Osborne McConathy, Director, Department of School Music, Northwestern University.

Edward B. Birge, B. A., Mus. B., Director of Music, Public Schools, Indianapolis, Ind.

W. Otto Miessner, Director, Department of Music, State Normal School, Milwaukee, Wis.

Music authorities concede that these authors have realized four distinct and notable aims that differentiate this series from all others:

1. The best that modern research has contributed to the science of typography, both from the standpoint of art, and eye conservation, has been embodied in music books for children.

2. The folk dance has been employed as a concrete and definite factor in developing on the child's physiological or motor side, his inborn sense of rhythm.

3. The best that modern educational psychology has contributed to the field of general education and to our understanding of child development, through its stagewise progression, has been so employed as to endow Public School Music with all of the fundamental ideals, tested and accepted by present-day authorities in educational thought.

4. Song material, selected at the beginning solely for its intrinsic and permanent worth and without regard to the technical problem contained therein, collected from the libraries of the world and contributed by the foremost musicians of all nations, makes the content of the series. This material is made the sole basis of definite musical instruction. It has been consistently organized so as to meet the natural instincts and interests of the children for whom it is intended, and it has been so graded as to gradually unfold and exemplify the musical problems for which their developing knowledge of music creates a rational need.

It is the first series published to have a complete outline of the beginning work for the teacher, so as to put music on as definite a basis as other studies. The great purpose of Public School Music as here interpreted is not mere knowledge of musical facts, nor finished technique, but rather an appreciation of music content, and through the creation of the highest ethical and cultural influences, a worthy contribution to the building of character.

Folk Dances and Games

DRAMATIC GAMES AND DANCES

FOR LITTLE CHILDREN

By Caroline Crawford

THE interest shown in the development of the dramatic instincts in children as a legitimate part of their early education will lead teachers in kindergartens and primary grades to welcome Miss Crawford's new book as the first to treat the dramatic game as an art form, and to show how it can be used in the development of the child's earliest art expression.

Beautifully illustrated, Quarto cloth, $1.50 net.

By the same author.

The Rhythms of Childhood

This new book will contain twenty-seven different forms of the activities of child life, recorded in the rhythms which are given. These are written to represent patterned mood rather than mere external activity.

A selection of folk music, similar in mood and type, will be placed opposite every rhythmic form. Children can then begin the study and appreciation of music as a language by the acquaintance of simple but beautiful forms which express moods and activities akin to their own. Beautifully Illustrated. Price $1.50 net.

Recent Additions to Ginn and Company's Music Publications

For Grades Five and Six

THE INTERMEDIATE SONG READER by James M. McLaughlin, Director of Music in the Public Schools of Boston—12mo, cloth, 128 pages, 32 cents.

A book of songs of great beauty, peculiarly adapted psychologically to the age of pupils of the fifth and sixth grades. More than one-third of the selections in Parts I, II, and III of the book are two-part songs; all the selections in Part IV are three-part songs.

For Grades Seven and Eight

THE GRAMMAR SCHOOL SONG READER by T. P. Giddings, Director of Music in the Public Schools of Minneapolis, and E. W. Newton, Boston—8vo, cloth, 256 pages, 50 cents.

A book of exceedingly attractive songs for classes with and without changed voices, many selections with very easy bass, some with the melody in the bass, some for unison singing, all worthy of study. Every song in the book is simple enough to be read without difficulty by the average seventh and eighth grade pupil and the problem of changing voices has been taken into account in every selection.

For Supplementary Use

SELECTED SONGS FROM INTERMEDIATE SONG READER—12mo, paper, 48 pages, 20 cents.

This is an ideal community book for fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth grade pupils. There are 20 two-part and 12 three-part songs, exceedingly musical, very easy, and altogether just the collection for supplementary use in the grades named, or better still, the community book for those grades. To stimulate musical interest and ability, arrange for a weekly half-hour of music by the combined fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades of a building, and sing from Selected Songs from the Intermediate Song Reader. The result will be inspiring.

For Public School Orchestras

ORCHESTRATIONS OF SELECTIONS IN STANDARD SONG CLASSICS—41 different selections for any one instrument, $1.00; any one selection for orchestra of ten instruments, 30 cents.

The 41 selections in Standard Song Classics, Ginn and Company's latest high school chorus book, have been orchestrated for the following instruments:

1st VIOLIN	'CELLO	CLARINET
2nd VIOLIN	BASS	CORNETS
VIOLA	FLUTE	THROMBONE
DRUMS	PIANO

Each orchestration may be used as an accompaniment to the vocal parts or as a complete orchestral number without vocal parts; all are so arranged that they may be used by the small orchestra or by one having all the instruments scored.

Supervisors are invited to correspond with the publishers.

School Editions

The Most Popular Song Books

Because he appreciated the increase of sentiment favoring college songs in our preparatory schools, and because he questioned the educational advisability of introducing to youth during his transitional years many of our too-free college songs. Prof. Leo. R. Lewis compiled and edited "School Songs with College Flavor."

The collection contains all the old and new popular college songs, edited and revised to eliminate the objectionable features in the originals but to retain the very desirable sentiments of friendship and loyalty. The music has all been carefully arranged for youthful voices, including the interchangeable alto-tenor part. This truly unique collection is proving exceedingly popular in High Schools and Preparatory Schools. Price, in flexible cloth binding, 55 cents postpaid.

OTHER SONG BOOKS FOR SCHOOL USE In flexible or stiff cloth binding.

DO YOU KNOW

hat it costs us as much to Gambleize music as it does the publisher to print it? They sell the music at an average charge of 25c but all we charge for the "Hinge" together with "putting it on" is 3c. Considering the fact that it makes the musicwear from 5 to 10 times as long, it is the cheapest thing about the music from the cost standpoint and the best thing about it from the viewpoint of efficiency, endurance, service and satisfaction.

Just Published SELF HELP FOR SINGERS, By David C. Taylor.

A Manual for Self Instruction—Based on the Old Italian Method.

This book is not intended to supplant the personal work of the teacher, nor does it argue that the teacher is unnecessary. Rather it is an auxiliary. Much of the student's work must necessarily be done away from the teacher's direct supervision, and here it is a valuable guide. It shows the way to a rigorous standard for self-criticism, and faithfully followed will yield golden results. Price, $1.00.
